Keep in Mind the Phonograph

Those having in charge the gathering of funds sufficient to purchase for the local school a first-class phonograph and records, are much gratified with the progress made to date.

About one-third of the sum required is now in hand and promised, and a systematic plan for soliciting the $65 still needed is to be inaugurated.

Meetings help the scheme along. It is a most worthy object and should have your support. Money orders, checks or coin will do.

"The Piper" Will Be the Children's Play

At a meeting of the council of the Forest Theatre Society last Wednesday evening the annual children's play was determined upon.

Josephine Preston Peabody's masterful effort, "The Piper," publicly read here last June by Mrs. Josephine Rogers, is the play selected. It is founded upon Robert Browning's poem "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." Briefly, the story is as follows:

The scene is laid in the village of Hamelin, in the year 1284 A.D. The characters are the three strolling players, The Piper, Michael the Sword Eater, and Cheut the Devil; the men of Hamelin: The Burgomeister, Jacobus; Kurt, the Snydie; Peter, the Cobbler; Axel, the Smith; Hans, the Butcher; Martin, the Watch; Peter, the Sacristan; Anselm, a young priest; Old Claus, a miser, and the Town Crier. The women of Hamelin: Veronika, the wife of Kurt; Barbara, the daughter of Jacobus; the wife of Hans; the wife Axel, and old Ursula. The children of the play are Jan, Ilse and Rudi.

The village was infested with a plague of mice and rats. The populace were at its wits end as to how to rid themselves of the pests. The Piper, one of a troupe of players stops at the village, and is told of the trouble. Upon the promise of Jacobus to pay him a thousand pieces of gold, The Piper agrees to free the town of rats and mice. With the magic of his pipes he does so.

On his endeavor to collect his promised reward, however, he is scoffed at by the burgomeister and the rest of the villagers. He becomes angry and plans revenge. Knowing the power of the music of his pipes, he waits until the elder people are at service and then gathers the children about him, and charming them, he lead them to a far-off mountain cavern.

When the loss of the children is discovered, the mothers become frantic, seeking everywhere for them, but without success.

During this time The Piper is happy with the children. Chancing out one day, he meets Veronika, mother of little crippled Jan, and, noting her distress, returns all the children to their parents.

The Piper gets his pay and bestows it upon the needy of the Hamelin village.

If you read it in the Pine Cone, you may safely repeat it.

Stanford Man to Direct Summer Plays

(From Stanford-Palo Alto News)

Glenn Hughes, '16 has been appointed by the Forest Theatre Society of Carmel-by-the-Sea to direct and produce the annual outdoor performances which will be given at Carmel the first week in July. Hughes has also been engaged to direct the children's play which will be staged at the same time under the auspices of the Arts

The Forest Theatre's Society's production is the chief dramatic effort of the Carmel season and is nationally known as an artistic open-air performance. In former years such plays as Constance Skinner's "David," "The Sons of Spain" by Sidney Howard and "The Carmel Mission Pageant," have been staged under the direction of Garnet Holme, Frank Mathieu and Perry Newberry. Hughes is no novice at this kind of undertaking and has a reputation for the excellence of his productions.

An Ideal Candidate

The Republicans of this, the Eighth District, will be called upon in August to nominate a candidate for Representative in Congress. An ideal candidate, in the person of Geo. S. Walker, has come forward.

Walker's home is in San Jose. He has been in public life many years, having been a member of both houses of the State Legislature, and is at present State Building and Loan Commissioner. While in the Legislature, Walker always voted "right," and did not dodge a roll-call. He may be depended upon to do the same should the people send him to Washington.

Sunday School Picnic

Hay wagons, Doctor Peake's Ford and other rolling stock were requisitioned last Saturday to convey the children and a number of parents about six miles up the Carmel Valley to a picnic given under the auspices of the Carmel Methodist Sunday School.

Antonio Corsi, The well-known artists' model and moving picture actor, who will be here shortly to take up his work in connection with the Carmel Summer School of Art, which opens on July 5.

WEEKLY GREETING

I never knew an early-rising, hard-working, prudent man, careful of his earnings, and strictly honest, who complained of hard luck.—Thomas Addison.

European Literature

The present conflict cannot help increasing the interest of American readers in European literature, for it has forced some knowledge of Europe upon large parts of our population that thought little of foreign affairs before.

For example, the popular American conception of France is much more intelligent and sympathetic than it was two years ago. As a nation we know more about Frenchmen and like them better than we did before. We like to read about them and also for the same reason we shall be more eager to read what Frenchmen write. And this will be particularly the case after the close of the war.

Reverence For Law

"Let reverence for laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries and colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation; and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions, sacrifice unceasingly on its altars."—Lancaster (S. C.) News.

The Literary Digest is backing a movement to standardize typewriters. This is a good plan, but it seems impossible as long as some business men prefer blondes and others brunettes.

Errors in Newspapers

The capacity of some people for detecting errors in newspapers is marvelous. Also it is singular how many unexpected meanings these people can find.

If the reporter writes that a man wore a coat of such and such character, some one may call up and ask if the coat was all the man had on. To satisfy these literalist, you must enumerate, item by item, the other articles of attire or they will accuse you of making the victim appear half naked.

The reader, who digests his paper in the quiet of his home feels that he has shown great brilliancy if he detects an error in grammar, or capitalization. It is one thing to find mistakes at your leisure in another man's work, quite another to turn out high degree accuracy and precision in the haste of newspaper composition.

The banker makes blunders in his figures, the lawyer draws up incorrect papers, and the business man submits erroneous bills. Such blunders are known only to the few persons whom they concern. The newspaper man is like the actor on the stage, whose slightest slip is manifest to all and seems ridiculous.

It would be perfectly possible to produce a newspaper having the same degree of accuracy as the best edited magazine. But this would either cost about twice as much for a more costly force, or else the scope and field of the newspaper would have to be reduced and less matter printed. The public would not pay the bills in the first case, and it would not be satisfied with curtailment of service. So the newspapers struggle along as best they can in their eternal effort to accomplish that impossibility, a snapshot of daily life that shall be permanent and absolutely truthful history.

The newspaper man is not offended when he is jollied on such mistakes as creep in. He merely wishes the critics could have his job about one week.—Salinas Index.

Guard Against Fire in the Forest

Matches

Be sure your match is out before throwing it on the ground. Break it in two.

Tobacco

Throw pipe ashes and cigarette and cigar stumps in the dust of the road, and stamp out the fire.
Do not throw them into needles,
leaves or brush.

Making Camp

Make a small camp fire. Build it in the open—not against a tree or log or near brush. Scrape away anything burnable near it.

Leaving Camp

Never leave a camp fire alone, even for a brief time, without pouring water upon it and then covering it with earth. See 1914 hunting license.

Bonfires

Do not make bonfires when it is windy, or when or where there is the least danger of getting beyond control. Avoid making a larger fire than necessary.

Fighting Fire

If you discover a fire, endeavor to put it out. If you cannot, get word of it to the nearest federal or state fire warden quickly.

Information

Keep in touch with the rangers.
Ascertain the number of the district in which you are camping from United States forest rangers, county clerks or newspaper offices.
Make a note of it on a card or memorandum book.

The Place Desired

Oh, other skies are fair, no doubt,
And other seas of dimpled blue
Their silver pennants gaily flout,
And glad the days are through and through;
In other far sweet spots the dew
Imprints its kiss upon the flowers
And linnets sing the way to woo,
But I prefer this burg of ours.
From other shores low hills arise,
With templed sides and greening
crest;
In other harbors, fair of guise,
White wings of ships find place
to rest;
But somehow these meet not the
test,
These other havens rock-bound sheer;
One spot of all to me is best—
I'm sort of glad I live right here.

Henry Slevin, a year and a

to withstand the ravages of spirit passed while the child slumbered.

The annual ball of the Carmel Firemen will take place on Saturday evening, June 24, at the Manzanita Theatre. The moving picture show scheduled to take place on that date will be given on Friday.

Moving picture shows coming: Next Saturday, "Aristocracy"; next Tuesday, "Unafraid."

The small kiddies and their parents are invited to visit Curtis Park, where there have been installed various amusement features.

Many signers were obtained last week to the petition to place on the ballot at the next election the proposition to Authorize Local Taxation Exemption.

Valley Boys Win

The first baseball game of the season in Carmel took place on Sunday on the Eighty-Acre Tract.

The Carmel Valley "Wood-ticks" defeated the Carmel "Sandfleas" by 11 runs to 6.

The Valley boys were particularly happy over their victory because Benny Leinig was alleged to have said that Julius Wolter had "lots of steam but only a straight ball," and himself struck out four times.

We hope that by this time Gus Wolter, who gamely remained behind the bat after being injured, is walking normally again.

Arthur Donnelly umpired a satisfactory game.

Carmel is looking forward to an opportunity to redeem itself.

Many Show Their Interest in Socialism

Notwithstanding that there were several other meetings, requiring the attendance of a considerable number of our town residents, about 150 persons showed their interest in the Socialist doctrine by attending the meeting at the Manzanita Theatre on Wednesday evening last.

Under the auspices of the Carmel local, Mr. Walter T. Mills, Socialist lecturer and author, of Berkeley, came here to speak on "The World's Crisis—Its Cause and Cure."

The crisis, of course, is the present world war; the cause, a row among the ruling classes; the cure—that's where the speaker was not very clear.

In answer to a query as to whether a nation or municipality could, by itself alone, put into operation a Socialistic program, the speaker's reply was somewhat vague and unsatisfactory.

Mr. Mills made many of his points in a humorous manner. In stature he is small, in voice big, which facts prompted a number of his auditors to refer to him as "The little man with the large voice."

After an absence of several weeks, Mrs. John L. Williams has returned home, in better health than when she left.

Miss Jennie Powers, who had not been in Carmel for a year or more, has been occupying The Dunes for the past fortnight.

Miss Jessie B. Swift is here from San Jose, and will probably remain through June and July.

Commencement over, Carmel's contingent of Berkeley folks are beginning to arrive. Prof. A. F. Lange and family came in Friday.

E. A. Mosher, an artist, of Los Angeles, with his wife, will remain here through June.
